DEALER ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At Capital One, compliance with both the Fair Credit Reporting Act and fair lending law is a top priority. We know that you share our strong commitment to treat customers fairly and do not tolerate discrimination of any kind.

EQUAL CREDIT OPPORTUNITY ACT

As you know, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau ("CFPB") has published guidance on compliance with fair lending laws when it comes to indirect auto lending (available at http://files.consumerfinance.gov/f/201303_cfpb_march_-Auto-Finance-Bulletin.pdf), and NADA has published a Fair Credit Compliance Policy & Program guide that is available at http://www.nada.org/NR/rdonlyres/316F7BE3-499B-4A54-B56A-EFDF8414B04B/0/NADA_Fair_Credit_CompliancePolicy_Program.pdf

As a dealer that sells retail installment contracts to Capital One, we ask that you:

- Be aware that the Equal Credit Opportunity Act ("ECOA") and Regulation B prohibit lenders such as auto dealers from discriminating against customers on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, marital status, age, or the receipt of income derived from any public assistance program. Similar state laws have additional prohibitions.
- Be aware that fair lending laws apply to many aspects of a customer's dealings with you, including the pricing of retail installment contracts and dealer markups.
- Remember that ECOA has been interpreted to prohibit not only intentional discrimination, but also unintentional discrimination under a legal theory known as "disparate impact." Discrimination can be found where a lender has no intent to discriminate and where a practice appears neutral on its face if it is later determined that a particular class of borrower was negatively impacted.
- Remember that we expect our dealers to ensure that their pricing practices are appropriate and be aware that like many other financial institutions, we monitor the pricing and dealer participation on retail contracts. If we see recurring disparities, we'll reach out to you to discuss them further.

FAIR CREDIT REPORTING ACT

Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act you are either a "user" of credit information, a consumer reporting agency (depending on your method of operation), or exempt except for disclosure requirements. Most of the law is not complicated, but there are various parts which need interpretation.

- Whenever you submit an application on a consumer and it is declined, the Fair Credit Reporting Act requires you to inform the consumer of the name and address of each creditor/potential assignee to whom you submitted the application. For your protection as well as ours, this notice should be in writing.
- Should the financing source to whom you submitted the application reject the deal and supply you credit information, you may find yourself being a "user" of a report and, depending on the information received, trigger additional responsibilities. As a result, only our credit decision will be given on a credit application called in to us. This policy will remain in effect until official interpretation exempts us from being considered a consumer reporting agency if additional information is given to you.

While we have shared a long-standing commitment to fair lending, we want to reaffirm our support of the auto industry's efforts to eliminate any unlawful lending practices where they may exist and reiterate our expectations of our dealer partners as it pertains to fair lending laws. Thank you and we look forward to a wonderful relationship.
